VALMADGE T. TOWNER, PH.D.

FIFTH PRESIDENT
COAHOMA COMMUNITY COLLEGE
OCTOBER 10, 2013

History

Coahoma County Agricultural High School was established in 1924, becoming the first agricultural high school in Mississippi for Negroes under the existing "separate but equal" doctrine. The junior college curriculum was added in 1949, and the name of the institution was changed to Coahoma Junior College and Agricultural High School. During the first year (1949-1950), the junior college program was conducted by one full-time college director/teacher and a sufficient number of part-time teachers from the high school division. A full-time dean and college faculty members were employed in the third year of operation. During the first year of operation (1949), Coahoma Junior College was supported entirely by county funds. In 1950 Coahoma Junior College became the first educational institution for Negroes to be included in Mississippi's system of public junior colleges and to be eligible to share in funds appropriated by the Mississippi Legislature for the support of public junior colleges. Other counties also began to support the junior college, including Bolivar, Quitman and Sunflower.

In 1965 Coahoma Junior College opened its doors to all students regardless of race, color, sex, national origin, or disability. During its history, Coahoma Community College and Agricultural High School has been headed by eight superintendents and four presidents: M.L. Strange, 1924-25; J.M. Mosley, 1925-29; J.W. Addison, 1929-37; J.B. Wright, 1937-45; B.F. McLaurin, 1945-66; J.E. Miller, 1966-79; McKinley C. Martin, 1980-92; and the incumbent Vivian M. Presley, 1992-2013. With her appointment as superintendent/president on January 6, 1992, Dr. Vivian Presley became the first female to head Coahoma Community College and Agricultural High School and the first woman to head a community/junior college in the state of Mississippi. With the approval of the Board of Trustees of Coahoma Junior College and the State Board for Community and Junior Colleges, Coahoma Junior College's name was changed to Coahoma Community College, effective July 1, 1989.

In the spring of 1995, after many years of not having an official district, a bill was introduced to and passed by the Mississippi Legislature and signed by Governor Kirk Fordice, giving Coahoma Community College a district. Effective July 1, 1995, the Coahoma Community College district became Bolivar, Coahoma, Quitman, Tallahatchie, and Tunica Counties.

On July 1, 2013, Dr. Valmadge T. Towner was named Coahoma Community College's fifth president to join an esteemed group of college leaders.

Mission

Coahoma Community College, located in the northwest corner of the rural Mississippi Delta, is an accredited, public, comprehensive, two-year institution of higher learning dedicated to serving Bolivar, Coahoma, Quitman, Tallahatchie, and Tunica counties and beyond. Serving as a catalyst for economic and community development, Coahoma Community College provides accessible, affordable, diverse, and quality educational opportunities and services that foster a nurturing teaching and learning environment, promotes intellectual and work readiness skills, supports personal and professional growth, and prepares students to enter the job market or transfer to a college or university.

Valmadge TeErino Towner, Ph.D.

Dr. Valmadge Towner's career in education has come full circle. His early education began in Clarksdale at St. Elizabeth's Catholic School, and on July 1, 2013, he became president of Clarksdale's highest academic institution – Coahoma Community College. Towner is the fifth president to serve at CCC and the ninth superintendent of Coahoma Agricultural High School. He is, however, the first president to have ever previously served on the Coahoma Community College Board of Trustees, having served from 2004-2012. Dr. Towner is a native of Marks, MS. He went to high school in Quitman County before making his first appearance at Coahoma Community College and receiving his associate's degree in Math-Oriented Computer Science. CCC's leader is a stellar example of how a degree from Coahoma can open up the world to its graduates. He continued his education at Alcorn State University earning three degrees there that included a bachelor's degree in Mathematics and two master's degrees in education – one in mathematics and the other in administration.

"Coahoma provided me with the education that I needed and laid the groundwork for me to continue my educational journey," said Towner. "And that's what we need to continue to do today, equip our students and give them the confidence that when they leave CCC, they can go wherever they want to go." Towner's journey through life exemplifies that notion. His travels and education have taken him across the nation and the world. He has delivered lectures in both Africa and China on education and continued his studies, receiving a master's degree in divinity from Princeton Theological Seminary in New Jersey and a doctoral degree in Philosophy in Educational Leadership at the University of Mississippi.

His educational commitment is ongoing as he serves on the boards of a myriad of community and academic organizations that include the State Chamber of Commerce, Mississippi Economic Council, Regional Health Council, the Mississippi Association of School Superintendents, the Southern Regional College Board, the Boys to Men Club and the National Baptist Congress USA, Inc. Towner also serves as the pastor of Friendship Baptist Church in Greenwood, MS. Coahoma's newest president brings with him 22 years of educational experience that includes time spent at Coahoma as a mathematics professor, head baseball coach and assistant football coach. Towner has also served as both a principal and superintendent in the Quitman County School District and as an adjunct professor at Lemoine-Owen College. Most recently, he served as the director of pupil services in the Desoto County School System. His dedication to education has also earned him recognition as Leflore County's Man of the Year, as well as, a nod as Mabogany magazine's Person of the Year. Towner is continuing a family legacy at Coahoma; his mother was an instructor at CCC, and his father, a pastor of New Hope Missionary Baptist Church in Clarksdale, was an assistant music director at Coahoma. CCC's newest president says that he is humbled by his new charge at Coahoma Community College and encourages students to educate themselves and to aspire to achieve their own personal goals.

"I'm really humbled by this opportunity and am amazed at how things have turned out for me," said Towner. "I would tell anyone to do what you can, when you can, to prepare yourself for the many opportunities that life will present you."

The President's Regalia

An Alumnus of Coahoma Community College, the President's regalia is a special gift presented to him by the Coahoma Community College National Alumni Association. This custom designed robe is made with the traditional black crepe fabric with maroon velvet neck trim and front panels. This maroon color is worn in honor of Coahoma Community College. The bell sleeves are accented with four velvet doctor bars which represent the Office of the President. All velvet is trimmed with antique gold cord. His traditional hood is fashioned from matching black crepe with maroon velvet trimmed with gold cord. The back of the hood represents the official school colors of maroon and white. The size and length of the hood indicates the highest level of academic achievement. The Presidential Hood is made of maroon velvet with a white chevron stripe. To top off the regalia is an eight-sided velvet tam with the doctor gold bullion tassel.

Chain of Office

The Chain of Office represents the authority of the president of the College. The Chain of Office is formed of bronze links separated by round brass links. To the left of the Chain of Office, the round brass links are inscribed with the names and the years of service of the four superintendents of Coahoma Agricultural High School: M.L. Strange, 1924-1925; J.M. Mosley 1925-1929; J.W. Addison, 1929-1937; and J.B. Wright, 1937-1945. To the right of the Chain of Office, the round brass links are inscribed with the names and years of service of the four presidents/superintendents of Coahoma Community College and Coahoma Agricultural High School: Benjamin F. McLaurin 1945-1966; James E. Miller, 1966-1979; McKinley C. Martin, 1980-1992; and Vivian M. Presley, 1992-2013. A brass leaf link inscribed with the name of the current President, Valmadge T. Towner, connects to the culminating jewel, the College seal. The Chain of Office is gifted to Dr. Valmadge Towner by the Coahoma Community College Foundation.

College Mace

Originally a weapon of combat, the mace is said to have been developed around 12,000 BC. The macebearer is a much more recent phenomenon. The position is derived from medieval times in Europe when the mace was carried by a bodyguard to protect the king from would-be attackers.

Over the centuries, the mace has come to represent the academic authority of colleges and is now used ceremonially as a symbol of office. It is traditionally carried by a distinguished faculty member preceding the president.

The Mace was designed and crafted by Mr. Larry Barrett, carpentry instructor, and carpentry students, Devente Robinson, Earnest Martin, Eddie Earl, Sylvester Simon, Xavier Jones, Stacy Pollard, Crystal Johnson, and Angela Austin in the Career Technical Division and Mr. Henry Dorsey, retired Fine Arts Department Chairman at Coahoma Community College. The Coahoma Community College mace is 45 inches in length and bears the seal of the college. Engraved on the six brass banners are the guiding principles of the college: Diversity, Integrity, Learning, Quality, Respect and Trust.

"COAHOMA, COAHOMA"

Words and Music by J. Orville Moseley
April 23, 1954

Coahoma, Coahoma, we kneel before thine alter,
In Reverence, in homage, in consecration strong;
 Upon the earth where'er we tread
 We never will thy name degrade.
We challenge wrong with never any dread.
 We shall not be afraid.
Coahoma, Coahoma, our aim is not to falter,
But to be brave in the good life to which we all belong.

Coahoma, Coahoma, as though the sun were rising,
Thy precepts, thy guidance, will ever be our star;
 As in the world we take our place
 Our memories of the remain,
We'll do our best to win the bitter race
 And honor to retain.
Coahoma, Coahoma, thy sons are now arising
 To the great call men of courage
 We shed thy light afar

Coahoma, Coahoma, Our noble Alma Mater
We laud thee, we hail thee, with never ending praise;
 The fortune of our future lives
 We'll cast a ray of light on thee.
The shades of night will swiftly disappear
 With thoughts of thee so near.
Coahoma, Coahoma, our beacon of tomorrow
 We will always shout thy glory
 Our Alma Mater, dear.
